Traditional vs. Behavioral Interviews

- Traditional: you are asked a series of questions which provide straightforward responses about work performed

- Behavioral: based on a predetermined skill set needed for the position, the interviewer wants to know how you handled the situation
Behavioral Interviews

- Behavioral interviewing asserts that “the most accurate predictor of future performance is past performance in a similar situation.”

- 43% of all organizations use behavioral interview to some degree.
Behavioral Interview

- The employer attempts to gain specific information about your past performance as it relates to the skills and qualifications needed for the job.

- The employer’s questions are aimed at revealing job-related skills.

- You may use experiences from work, activities, hobbies, volunteer work, school projects, family life.
Preparation is the key to succeeding in a behavioral interview.

Candidates who prepare for behavioral interviews are better prepared—even for traditional interviews.
Preparing for the Behavioral Interview

- Identify 3 selling points about yourself that is important for the interviewer to know and determine how you will convey the points throughout the interview.

- Keep a personal diary of your projects or tasks that were met with success and challenges.

- Analyze the type of position for which you are applying, review job description.
Preparing for the Behavioral Interview

- Know your resume. Review your background, inventory your skills.
- Identify examples from your past experiences that demonstrate skills needed for the job.
- Quantify your results, the outcome of your tasks (if possible).
- Be prepared to provide examples of when you did not meet a task with success.
Answering the Behavioral Interview Question

- Answer the questions by describing a specific situation
- Explain the situation, how you handled it, and the overall outcome
- Utilize the STAR technique when answering questions
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STAR Technique</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>S = Situation: find and describe a situation that ties into the interview question at hand.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>T = Task: further delineate a specific task you had to complete in this situation.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A = Action (s): discuss the approach you took to deal with the task, breaking down your actions one by one.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R = Result: conclude by describing specific, concrete outcomes of your actions; making mention of accomplishments, improvements made as a result of your actions.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
